is a Constitutional Disease

It originates in impure blood and requires constitutional treatment, acting through and purifying the blood, for its radical and permanent cure. The greatest remedy is lowing it. But it is not an isolated fact; it is an act of conspiracy to destroy plaintiff's business," etc.

The decision quotes from the records in contravention of the Federal court's claim that it is a federation of organizations and has no individual membership. This conspiracy originated, the court said, in the action by the Metal Polishers' local No. 13 in St. Louis in the fall of 1906 and a body federated with the American Federation of Labor—through the International Polishers' union—when this body acted it did not use the term "boycott," but the more euphemistic term of "unfair" and "we don't patronize." But the court holds that whatever the term used, the boycott was the effect intended, and "in fact, the terms mean the same thing and the procedure of the federations does not seem doubtful."

The case has attracted widespread attention and today's decision has been awaited with great interest throughout the country.

James H. Beck of New York, former assistant Attorney-General, who with Daniel Davenport of Bridgeport, Conn., and J. J. Darlington of this city, represented the Buck company, said:

Case of Great Importance.

"While the decision contains no new departure in legal principles and simply follows the weight of authority in both the State and Federal court, the case is of far-reaching importance as the first case where the American Federation of Labor, as a body, has been enjoined from using its chief weapon of offense and defense, the boycott. For years, the manufacturers throughout the country have feared the formidable blacklist of the federation with its membership of nearly two million men and many of them in some cases, in industries, have yielded to the demands of the federation. Previous injunction suits to prevent these widespread boycotts have been brought against local and State local organizations, with remedial results which were purely local. In this case the injunction is granted against the officers and executive council by whose orders boycotts are declared and prosecuted. Such boycotts are now declared unlawful in the District of Columbia, where the headquarters of the federation are. While the court did not pass on the application of the Sherman anti-trust law to the plaintiff's interstate trade, yet this omission is of minor importance as that point will soon be passed upon by the Supreme Court of the United States in a case which was recently advanced for argument and argued."

New Phase of Case.

Tomorrow there will be an argument before Judge Gould over a proposition of counsel for the federation that the court's order putting the injunction decision into effect limiting in express terms, its application to the District of Columbia. Counsel for the plaintiff will oppose this.

Attorney J. H. Ralston of counsel for the federation said tonight that he had no opinion to express regarding the decision; that the injunction was a temporary one, and that, in so far as the Sherman law or the interstate commerce law, which question had been raised in the proceedings, was concerned, he regarded the decision as affording that phase of the case a victory for the defense.

Former Assistant Attorney-General Beck for the prosecution regarded the decision as a sweeping victory for the opponents of the boycott.

Judge Gould also handed down two opinions granting permanent injunctions in the case of Bender against the Bakers and Confectioners' union, and Lawton against the International Carriage and Wagon Workers' union, two local cases which the court decided along the same lines as the Buck stove case.

GOMPERS NOT READY TO MAKE STATEMENT NOW

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, who is in this city, declined to make any comment on the action of the court in granting a temporary injunction against the federation on motion of James H. Beck, U. S. attorney. He said he would want time to consider the matter and to confer with some of his associates before deciding upon what further action may be taken by the federation.

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS IN ANNUAL DEBATES

The annual debate of the senior class at the high school begins Wednesday. The first one will be "Resolved: That a partisan in politics is a better citizen than an independent." Affirmative in the fifth period class, Andrew Clark and John Bills; negative, George Linsley and Stephen Besley. In the sixth period class George Parsons and Wallace Woolf defend the affirmative and Armitage Rhodes and Edward Snyder the negative.

From now on until after the middle of January there will be five or six debates weekly, each dealing with current subjects until each team has had its turn. The students also will get experience in judging the debates.
